We're Shutting You Down Part II: The Shutting Down of The Hang Gliding Club

Ron Hod
Staff Writer

Many clubs panicked recently as news of a new administrative insurance hardline spread among them. Clubs were carefully checking their policies to see if they may be subjected to the strange new policy.

For the Hang Gliding Club, however, it has already turned into an old struggle. In spite of their superb safety record, in spite of their unique program, and in spite of their numerous wins for ULowell, they are due to total and irreversible liquidation. In one of many attempts to reverse the verdict, the club managed to get the required insurance, not once but three times. The administration kept popping new demands for new kinds of insurance, and the club got them.

Other clubs feel the same fate coming to them, and are already organizing for action. The next two clubs to be liquidated, it seems, are the Ski Club and the Alpine Club. There is yet no official comment from the Alpine Club, but a few Ski Club members guaranteed "tough action" if any action is taken against them. There was no further elaboration on their part.

"...(the deans) are stepping on too many toes here!" Commented a member of the Sport Car Club. "They are messing with the most active people on campus, and we can get most of the student body on our side." "They can expect some serious problems." Threatened a member of another club.

Whatever happens, however, will happen soon.

Raising 'Moonie' Suspicions, CAUSA Hunts For Student Signatures

(CPS) -- A group called CAUSA USA has begun circulating petitions on campuses across the nation in recent weeks, but some critics think it's a recruiting front for the Unification Church and the Reverend Sun Myung Moon.

CAUSA -- The Confederation of the Associations for the Unity of the Societies of the Americas -- usually circulates petitions asking signers to "agree" there should be a God-centered morality in the U.S., that all people should be free, and that communism is dangerous.

On some campuses, however, students are asked to sign to "promote" the bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution.

Since September, CAUSA petitions have shown up at the University of Lowell, Utah, Ohio State, Monmouth in New Jersey, Alabama, Nebraska, Minnesota, Winona State, Brookdale Community College and Queens College, among dozens of others.

Students at the above schools have complained CAUSA members belatedly inform them they're followers of Reverend Moon, while others charge the group is just gathering names of students to recruit for the Unification Church.

CAUSA officials deny all charges

Carnegie Foundation Calls For 'Overhaul' Of Colleges

(CPS)-American colleges are in need of a dramatic overhaul, a big new report issued last week by the Carnegie Foundation asserted.

Among other things, the foundation urged colleges to stop requiring students to take standardized admissions tests, to make all students take a "core curriculum" of courses and to have all students write and defend a "senior thesis" before getting their degrees.

A number of educators, moreover, say there's a good chance colleges may adopt many of the suggestions in the near future. Still others say the recommendations are impractical and much too expensive.

In pushing the three-year-old school reform movement up to the college level, the foundation asserted colleges are "driven by careerism and overshadowed by graduate and professional education."

As a result, "many of the nation's colleges are more successful in credentialing than in providing a

Wanted Management Graduates

Yellow Freight Company, the nation's largest general commodities hauler, is coming to ULowell to recruit for trainees for its Management Training Program from among December Management graduates. Yellow Freight is interested in finding persons who want a challenge in every area - people who are physically able to work in the open, who are willing to put in the long hours and to provide the detailed supervision necessary to keep the nation's freight moving, and who expect to receive a substantial financial reward for hard work. Yellow Freight's Management Training Program lasts four to five months. Trainees are paid $23,520 per year, and get a salary increase to $30,300 upon completion of the program. On the average, a Yellow Freight terminal manager can expect to be making about 40,000 per year, plus bonus, within five years.

If you are interested in hearing more about this outstanding management opportunity, you can see a Videotape about Yellow Freight in the Paley Room at the following times: Thursday, November 20th 12:30 P.M. and 3:30 P.M.; Friday, November 21th 12:30 P.M. and 3:30 P.M.; Monday, November 24th 12:30 P.M.; Tuesday, November 25th 12:30 P.M. and 3:30 P.M.; Wednesday, November 26th 12:30 P.M. and 3:30 P.M.

A Yellow Freight Area Manager will be in the Paley Room on Monday, December 1, at 3:30 P.M. to give additional information. Brochures describing the Yellow Freight Management Training Program are available in the C.M.S. Dean's Office (PA 305) and in the Management Department Office (FA 302).

Recruiters for Yellow Freight will be on campus December 10 and 11; details about time and place will follow.

Subject: International Students Big Brother/Big Sister Program

An Organization of Concerned International students is seeking volunteers to serve as "big brothers and big sisters" to help new International students to adapt to university life. Linguistic and cultural differences often combined with home sickness, make the transition to the university particularly difficult for these students. This volunteer group will become the International Students - Big Brother/Big Sister Program.

As a Big Brother/Big Sister, you would be asked:

1. To meet with your assigned International student regularly during the Spring Semester to discuss academic matters, strategies for success, advice on homework and tests, etc.
2. To introduce the new student to the professional society that deals with his academic major, as well as the department area, labs resources, etc.
3. If possible to show him or her around the Lowell area, (example: shopping centers, banks, transportation, health services, etc.)

Share your knowledge of the university with someone who would really appreciate it. American born or International students are welcome. If you are interested, return the attached form to: Box #1892 - North Campus

U.S. Orders Brandeis to Refund $422,960

Brandeis University will appeal a federal order to refund $422,960 from grants to the university's Upward Bound program over a three-year period. A federal audit originally called for repayment of $506,316, but that figure was reduced after Brandeis filed a 300-page response to the audit. The university received $905,367 in federal money for Upward Bound from 1980 to 1983.

University officials would not characterize the nature of the alleged discrepancies except to say that they involved no criminal charges.

NSF Sponsors Research in Mixed-Media Network

The National Science Foundation has given two universities a total of $800,000 to help design a communications network that will be able to transmit text, mathematical notation, graphics and images, and eventually voice, animation, sound, and video from any computer to any other.

The awards, to Carnegie Mellon University and the University of Michigan, are the first in the science foundation's EXPRES project--Experimental Research in Electronic Submission. N.S.F. officials expect to spend $6 million over three years to develop EXPRES.

College Sets New Rules to Prevent Grade Changing

Erie Community College officials say they have investigated the extent of grade changing on the college's basketball team and have taken steps to prevent such abuse in the future.

Last month, Donald Silveri, men's basketball coach at Erie, resigned after admitting he had changed the grades of some players.

William Taborn, chairman of the college's Board of Trustees, said the investigation had revealed that 7 students had received 15 grade changes between the fall of 1983 and the summer of 1986.

Mr. Taborn said the college had adopted new rules, including restrictions on access to grade forms and a prohibition against coaches' obtaining copies of students' records.

Japan's Female Graduates Gaining in Job Market

A government survey has found that female students are more likely than ever to find work after graduation.

The proportion of female graduates who found immediate employment increased from 62.8% in 1975 to 73.4% this year, according to Japan's education ministry. The corresponding gain for men was from 77.5% in 1975 to 78.9% in 1986. In all, 282,581 men and 93,679 women graduated from four-year universities last March.

against them.

"This is not some sort of tricky recruiting drive," says CAUSA USA President Joseph Sanchez. "We're not asking for donations."

"Frankly, you don't have any proof (of any CAUSA ties to the Unification Church)," CAUSA publicist Joy Garratt told a College Press Service reporter who inquired.

Sanchez adds, "CAUSA is not affiliated with the Reverend Moon. I'm a Roman Catholic."

But Ronald Hilton, professor emeritus at Stanford and editor of "World Affairs Report," contends CAUSA is a Moon organization.

"Moon has a very complex network of organizations," Hilton says. "Within the network of Moon organizations, there is one called CAUSA International, which promotes the anti-communist cause."

At the University of Utah, student activities coordinator Virginia Peterson, who believes CAUSA is in the network, says Moon-affiliated groups have "been here under several different names. They've been here at least three times that I can recall."

Hilton charges Moon's ties to American campuses "are far more numerous than the academic world suspects," adding they have "reached a degree of intellectual respectability which is quite surprising."

Sanchez says his group only has gotten campus "help" from CARP -- the Collegiate Association for the Research of Principles -- which makes no secret of its ties to the Unification Church.

"Some of our volunteers are CARP Moonies," Sanchez notes, "and they identify themselves as being with CARP. I am really grateful for the help."

But CAUSA, he says, just wants to get people to say they don't like communism.

"Who could argue with that? Virtually everyone who was asked did they agree said 'Yes,' Sanchez states. "Over seven million people have signed."

Hilton agrees. "Who indeed could argue?" Hilton echoes. "In theory, that's all very noble and profound."

But he suspects the group ultimately will use the names and addresses it's gathered to recruit. "I'm wondering if they're trying to get people to join the organization."

Garratt explains signees will get more information about the organization, including a "sample copy" of CAUSA's newsletter. Later, those people will be asked to subscribe to the $18 a year letter.

Sanchez says he has yet to decide what to do with the seven million signatures he's collected. CAUSA, he explains, may let the "leaders and politicians -- people who communicate -- know that seven million people believe this (or that) way."

Despite complaints of misrepresentation, most schools say they will keep their campuses open to the group.

"I suppose any group should be treated with courtesy and respect," Hilton says.

"I remember when the group first came, some questions were raised about what rights they had," recalls University of Alabama President Joab Thomas. "But I don't see any clear and present danger (from CAUSA's presence on campus). I don't think our students will be swayed or fooled by this."

Spelman College Wins Chance To Become Cosby's Hillman College

Spelman College has "won" the chance to host an on-location taping of The Cosby Show.

NBC, which airs the top-rated tv show and Camille Cosby - the wife of star Bill Cosby - toured a number of historically black colleges to find the campus to become "Hillman College."

Hillman is the fictitious black college Denise, one of the show's characters, attends. In the show, Denise's father and grandfather are Hillman graduates.

JoAnne Alfano, a NBC spokeswoman in New York, says Spelman, an 800-student private woman's college, "best exemplifies the small college with traditional values that we want Hillman to be."

"Two or three" colleges competed for the chance to serve as a set for the episode, Alfano says.

Camille Cosby toured the school while researching her master's thesis in black students on higher education, says Dr. Oscar Porter, spokesman for Tougaloo College in Mississippi, one of the schools considered for the show.

Spelman is 105 years old -- the oldest black woman's college in the world, says college spokeswoman Jo Moore Stewart. She adds the school will not be paid for the use of their campus.

"We will be recompensated with national recognition," Stewart says. "Mr. Cosby has donated to the college generously over the last several years. The figures I am not at liberty to give out."

Moreover, Cosby has a special connection to Spelman.

"His second daughter attends school here," Stewart reports, "and his own son will attend Morehouse (an all-male private college nearby) next fall."

"He sat on the podium during our last commencement, and kissed all of the graduates," Stewart recalls. "It was very moving."

Spelman and Morehouse students will work as extras on the show.

Cosby Show publicist Kim Insley isn't sure when actual filming will start on the campus, but says if the episode is a hit, NBC may spin off a series about the character, played by Lisa Bonet, at the college.

Overhaul Of Colleges

quality education for their students," the report said.

In early October, U.S. Secretary of Education William Bennett levelled essentially the same charges, adding colleges sometimes are so concerned with finding money to operate that they don't educate students well.

In response, Harvard President Derek Bok, Educational Testing Service President Gregory Anrig, and American Association of University Professors General Secretary Ernst Benjamin, among others, blasted Bennett as being hypocritical or shortsighted.

Bennett later claimed an unnamed educator told him that, if he continued such criticisms, no college would rehire him as a professor after he leaves the Dept. of Education.

The response to the Carnegie Foundation's version of the same criticisms has been considerably milder.

"We are always open to discussion," said Dr. Thomas Brewer of Georgia State.

Some administrators were quick to claim such reforms -- especially in admissions tests and requiring senior theses -- would be good for others, but not for them.

"Our view is that Dr. (Ernest) Boyer (the report's author) is primarily addressing smaller undergraduate schools," says Dr. Bernard Cohen, vice chancellor of academic affairs for the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Georgia State's Brewer adds "we would devise other admission standards" if the foundation's case for doing so is good enough.

Both Brewer and Cohen agree Boyer's suggestion to make seniors write and defend theses in front of a panel of faculty members would cause a "logistical nightmare."

"We would have lots of logistical problems. The big universities, the Universities of Texas of the world, admit about 14,000 freshmen each year," Brewer says.

"There's no way to do that," Cohen says emphatically. "Our graduating classes are about four to five thousand now. To staff and schedule the small seminars (at which seniors would defend their theses) would be an extraordinary cost."

The Carnegie Foundation also proposed making all collegians demonstrate English language proficiency to graduate, and pass a core of English, art, history and science courses.

The proposals, says Robert Hochstein of the Princeton-based foundation, were reached after three years of interviewing at 29 colleges of differing size and mission.

"Our goal is to make college better for all students, period. If in doing so, the colleges become better known and more successful, so be it," he says. "We are driven by a concern that the next generation be adequately prepared to meet their responsibilities to not only students, but adults as well."

After years of previous school reform reports from the Carnegie Foundation, the U.S. Dept. of Education, the National Commission on Education in the States and almost a dozen other bodies, however, many schools feel they're already on the road to what last week's report called "an American college renewal."

"We don't find a lot of surprises in this report," says Dr. Robert Edington of Clarion University of Pennsylvania.

"This merely reinforces what we're already doing. I believe this report is going to have a very positive impact. Carnegie is a prestigious organization that everyone listens to," Edington explains.

Liberal-Arts Internship Spring '87

The internship course 48.484 is a way for liberal arts students to get familiar with industry, and increase their chances of getting jobs in industry. Interns do unpaid work 15-20 hours a week in a local company, and also do some academic work. They get 6 hours' course credit. This consists of: a) 3 hours for 48.484; and b) 3 additional hours for a practicum or similar course in the student's own major.

What's in it for the student? First, a great improvement in the chances for liberal-arts students to get a good job in industry when they graduate. Second, an opportunity for students to check out their interests and to decide what (if any) additional skills they need to develop before graduation. Several former interns got full-time jobs in local companies such as Digital as a result of their internship experiences.

Who is eligible? Anyone majoring in the College of Liberal Arts. Juniors and seniors are preferred.

There are no prerequisites, except the permission of the instructor, Dr. John MacDougall. His office is in the Sociology Dept., Coburn 404 (South), extension 2475. He needs to talk to interested students about their interests and experience. It is also helpful to have taken a computer and/or business course, also Career Development and Self Assessment (48.220).

The kinds of work interns do for local companies vary a lot. Usually the main fields of work are personnel, editing/writing, and graphic design. At the present time, students work at Computervision (Bedford, MA), Digital (various locations), and Comfed Saving Bank (various locations), and other companies.

The work hours for local companies are flexible. The 15-20 hours a week can be two days at the company, four half-days, etc.

On campus, the class meets as a whole on Mondays and Wednesdays at 9. In addition, individual interns meet the instructor by appointment once every one or two weeks, to discuss their work. A small amount of reading is required every week, on trends in industry. Interns also keep a journal, and write a paper at the end of the semester integrating their work for their company with classroom work.

The internship is offered once a year, in the spring semester. However, it is often possible for an intern to continue working with his/her company in the following fall semester, and get credit for the work either in Industry Internship II or some kind of practicum.

For more information, contact Dr. MacDougall in Coburn 404, ext. 2475. His office hours are: MW 10:30-11, Falmouth 300 (North), Mon. 11:30-1:30, Coburn 404; also during fall 1986 advising period, Mon. 1:30-3:30, Coburn 404. Interested students are urged to contact him well in advance of registration.

$250.00 Small Business Institute Award for Accounting, Economics, Marketing, and Management Majors

The Small Business Institute of the College of Management Science offers a rare opportunity to a Senior or Second Semester Junior business student to participate in the real business environment and learn from people operating various companies. Teams of qualified students are formed under the supervision of faculty advisors to offer guidance to companies in the area on Marketing Objectives, Financial Analysis, Accounting and Record Keeping Methods, Computer Operations, Inventory Management and Personnel, etc.

This program is conducted through course # 66.495 (Small Business Practicum) which carries 3 Credit hours and may be used either as a General Elective, CMS Elective, or a Concentration Elective, (with approval of the relevant faculty advisor). The course is research oriented and therefore does not have a class schedule. The course grade is based on the final report containing an analysis of the problem(s) submitted to the client company.

During the spring term, 22 business students will be accepted into the course to analyze 11 companies. The team preparing the best report will receive an award of $250.00 from the SBI and a certificate of "Excellence". In addition, all research and traveling expenses will be reimbursed upon documentation.

Accounting, Economics, Marketing, and Management Majors are encouraged to take advantage of this opportunity. For more information, contact Prof. R. Khan at ext. 2808. The SBI Office is located in Room FA-302G.

The Foreigner. Written by Larry Shue, produced and directed by Daniel Schay. Featuring Brad Bellamy as Charlie Baker. At the Merrimac Repertory Theatre, Lowell Memorial Auditorium through December 6. Ticket info: 454-6324.

What is a boring science-fiction proofreader from England doing in a Georgia hunting lodge? Well, other than fighting off the Ku Klux Klan, restoring lost youth to a sweet little old lady, causing a slow-witted youngster to discover his intellectual potential, as well as reviving his own wet-dishrag personality—not much. Except for proving why The Foreigner is Off-Broadway's longest-running comedy of the 80's.

Brad Bellamy plays Charlie Baker, a nervous visitor from England who has accompanied his Royal Army buddy, "Froggy" LaSueur, on a trip to a backwoods Georgia lodge. Charlie, however, is so terrified of the prospect of spending three whole days cooped up in the company of strangers that he is on the verge of returning to England when Froggy gets an idea: he explains to the guests that Charlie is from an undisclosed foreign country, and

Paul Winter Consort at ULowell

The University of Lowell Center for the Performing and Visual Arts concludes the 1986 portion of its Performing Arts Series with an appearance by The Paul Winter Consort on Saturday, November 22nd at 8:00 PM.

Considered the prime leader of "New Age" music, soprano saxophonist Paul Winter exploded onto the national scene in 1962 when his sextet became the first jazz group ever to perform at the White House. He and the Consort have since released almost two dozen albums, with many of them climbing to the top of the Jazz charts.

Was the last play you saw the second grade production of Farmer Brown's vegetable patch in which you starred as a stalk of celery? Maybe it was a high school production you went to because your best friend was playing Toto in The Wizard of Oz. Maybe you haven't been to any plays lately. Well this week is a great time to change all that.

Until recently I never gave much thought to the idea myself. After all, there was Aliens and Rocky X to catch up on. And if movies constitute the bulk of your entertainment diet then you are almost certain to find the experience of seeing live people on a stage a welcome change from being mesmerized by a movie projector. I've noticed recently that a good live performance far surpasses most popular films in every important way. For one thing you don't get plays that are deliberately engineered to appeal to the lowest common denominator.

Before I use all the space on this page I'll offer you some options in case you find yourself considering going to see what I'm rambling I mean talking about. The best (i.e. cheapest) place to start would be right here by going to see one of the upcoming performances of The Crucible by the University drama club. Two bucks, yes, that's just two bucks puts you in the front row of Mahoney Auditorium. Performances are today (Nov 20) at 2:00 p.m., and tomorrow and Saturday evenings at 7:30 p.m.. If you saw their work last semester then you already know how good a deal this really is. The Crucible is a drama based on facts concerning the Salem witch trials, which puts a good dose of Massachusetts history into the bargain.

For national quality theater at a fraction of the cost, the Merrimac Repertory Theater, located in the Lowell Memorial Auditorium, has just kicked off its new season of comic and classic plays with a very funny Off-Broadway hit called The Foreigner. And they offer the all-important student discount—$7 for the Saturdays at 8 p.m. or $12 for the Wednesday 2 p.m. show.

For those in the travelling mood, the Boston Shakespeare Theatre is holding over the irreverent comedy Nunsense until November 30, and their $5 student rush offer makes this show an unbelievable deal. Ticket info is included in the reviews on this page.

A good way to catch another great comedy is to call the Charles Playhouse in Boston and volunteer to usher for one of their performances of Little Shop of Horrors.

So if you take time to explore any of these options I hope you have a good time and learn something.

The Little Sisters of Hoboken in a serious moment.

A Religious Experience

Nunsense, written and directed by Dan Goggin. Produced by Michael Frazier and Kenneth Todd Biller. Featuring Mary-Pat Green, Bonnie Schon, Lori Glaser, Laurie Graff and Kathryn Cobb. At the Boston Shakespeare Theatre, St. Botolph St. (near Copley Place) through November 30. Ticket info: 267-5600.

"If God had wanted everyone to look human, he wouldn't have invented nuns." At least that's the attitude of the Little Sisters of Hoboken in their hilarious musical parody Nunsense. This not-so-gentle spoof of the Catholic faith features a cast of zany sisters who stage a variety show in order to raise the money needed to bury four members of their order who currently reside in the convent freezer as a result of food poisoning. In the sketches that follow, the sisters reveal that a human side does indeed lurk underneath the starched habits.

For instance, the Mother Superior herself is responsible for the lack of funds in the first place—it seems the money to bury the deceased sisters got spent on a Betamax somehow. But never mind, the Lord will provide, but in this case it is the audience that is provided—with non-stop laughter.

Many of their routines recall the days of parochial school, as when one sister marches right into

Art Co-op invites artist to speak

Tony Chimento will discuss his work on display in Gallery 410 on Wednesday, December 3 at 1 p.m. in Gallery 410. He will also show slides of his other works and be available to students after the discussion to talk to them about their own work. The event is free and open to the public. All university students are encouraged to attend and discuss these huge, interpretive photo realist paintings with the artist.

Gallery 410 is located on the 4th floor of the Student Union Building, South Campus.

Instrumental Ensemble Concert

The University of Lowell Instrumental Ensemble will perform Monday evening Nov. 24th at 7:30 p.m. in the Center for Visual and Performing Arts located in Durgin Hall on South campus.

The Instrumental Ensemble, under the baton of Prof. David Martins, will perform works of R. Vaughan Williams, Richard Wagner, Mozart, and Howard Hanson. Guest conductors for the evening will be David Heintz and Bill Berliant. There will be no admission fee for the performance which is open to the public.

the audience to rebuke a woman who is chewing gum. Once the offending object is dutifully surrendered, we are warned that anyone else caught with gum will be wearing it on their nose for the duration of the show.

Such spontaneity is only one of the reasons for the success of this musical. The songs are also funny and infectious. The audience soon finds itself as much a part of the show as the members of the cast. These nuns are such unpredictable oddballs that you can't help laughing at such spectacles as the BVM (Blessed Virgin Mary) Cookbook, yet they carry their silliness off with a certain dignity, retaining just enough thinly-veiled stature to keep their jesting from becoming merely inane. If you are not the product of a Catholic school, see this show to fill in the gaps in your education. If you are, then see it for your revenge.

Student rush tickets may be purchased subject to availability for the 8:00 p.m. shows for $5.00 on Tuesday through Thursday nights one-half hour before the show. Two tickets only per student I.D.

Join The Rush!

A "Student Rush" policy will again be in effect for this Saturday's 8:00 p.m. performance of the Paul Winter Consort.

The rush will begin one-half hour prior to the start of the show, when ULowell students may purchase their tickets for just $2.00 cash with valid ID. Although there is no guarantee that rush tickets will definitely be available, the Center estimates that tickets will probably be available for the 7:30 p.m. rush. Students not wishing to take the risk of being shut out at the box office may purchase discount tickets in advance for $8.25 (Section "C") or $5.00 (Section "D").

This policy allows students to attend professional shows at the last minute and at a bargain price.

DEKE Speak

As was fully expected the brothers of Delta Kappa Phi had an action packed week. To top of the football team has amassed an unprecedented four victories crushing all who dare face their wrath. This sense of competitive ferocity must have been gleaned from the undefeated softball team. If the victories and the accompanying victory parties keep rolling in the brothers real challenge will be morning classes. Included in the sports with sig-o making a daring and courageous offensive against our house, one man with lots of Balls...of snow. We quickly martialled our forces and engaged the "enemy". The conflict was hotly contested with many heroic charges and harried retreats. After a hard long and valiantly fought battle the attack was rebuffed. After the truce we partook of the ceremonious keg of peace.

Along the line of sports many a spirited card game has been had, and they weren't games of crazy eight. The AST pledges and sisters should stop by more often, the DK death squads bored, and funs in the cards. Rick and the tall man made an impromptu road trip to WPI for a little social interaction. The regular road trip to the Bud plant set out with Cooz, Jimbo, Desi, Jeff and others aboard, this is getting to be more regular than the migration siberian yaks.

This past weekend was dominated by the concert with Brug Brugsen, The Stompers and the Fenders. The energy created by the concert didn't dissipate around the house until 4 A.M. In fact the pace picked up rather significantly. The concert was icing on the cake after a highly productive work party in which many renovations were made to keep our house in prime order. With Open House in the future the house has to be looking at it's best. It was a little run down after a spirited dart game with sig-o the thurs. before. Although we lost we still had a riotous time carousing till all hours of the night.

Deke of the week goes to all brothers attending the work party with a special mention to Mark "spike" Bialas for the kick-ass job with Brug Brugsen.

Once! Twice!! Thrice!!!

Alpha Omega sorority has been busy this past week. We have new sisters and we'd like to welcome and congratulate Trisha Stacey, Pam Beaupre' and Lynn Eager.

We had sisters attending the Sigma Phi Omicron alumni dinner this weekend also. Yearling, as usual showed up late, One-Puff, Stogie, Pirahna, and Ulsa looked marvelous and had a great time. Ulsa, I hope you are no longer pertranoid.

Pi Lambda Phi had a party this weekend also. Buckles and Darla showed up and had a blast.

The sisterhood would also like to give a warm appreciative thanks to Buffy and Poochie for showing up and making "our" weekend event worthwhile.

This weekend we are having our traditional hayride in Jaffrey, New Hampshire. We hope to see many alumni there.

Alpha Omega will be having a spring pledge class. Anyone interested in rushing can contact Rhonda Rheault, Box 1880. Take care and have a nice weekend.

TEKE Talk

Hello, the brothers of Tau Kappa Epsilon are honored to welcome ten new brothers into the largest national fraternity on campus. They are as follows: Mike Hennessey, John McOlini, Russ Gagner, John Kermit, Dan Lavoie, Joe Allard, Navine Bavikati, John Huikku, Scott Morgan & Kevin Swindon. Congratulations for their endeavors to enhance our house both brotherly and academically. It was a long road, but the rewards will stay with them wherever they go. Hoo rays go out to all the work done around the house including painting, sanding and insulating of the attic. Tod Benoit deserves much credit for all of his work. Thanks Tod!

Appreciation goes to the sisters of Phi Sigma Rho, for their delicious spaghetti supper with garlic bread. Even though we knocked them over when we had to say goodbye. Also, we would like to say that Dano and Erm can make a mean turkey dinner. Dave was glad that he finally got some "leg". We hope that everyone enjoys their Thanksgiving break, and certainly be thankful for all the things we take for granted. TKE is glad to take part in efforts to aid the less fortunate in life. We concluded our House of Hope Raffle held in conjunction with AICHE on Thursday, November 13. The winner, drawn by Dean King, was Deb Hagward from Somerville. Congrats to her and thanks to all the people who contributed to raise approximately $400.00. This money will give the poor a better Thanksgiving dinner than they would be able to draw from a trash can. Thanks for your time Dean King. We also will participate in the Hands Across the University campaign to benefit Oxfam America. We hope that the University will remember that some people in the world are still hungry.

As the semester draws to an end, we hope that everyone including the brothers pulls through this gut time. Remember, Santa is always good to the hard workers.

Good Luck and Good Times, The Brothers of Tau Kappa Epsilon
TEKE of the Town: Tod Benoit for all his renovation efforts!

Kappa Korner

Hello again from the sisters of Kappa Upsilon. We hope everyone had a restful weekend. A few of the sisters managed to see the Stompers on Saturday night and had a great time. I am sure everyone at the concert would agree that it was lots of fun. A special thanks goes to the TKE brothers for making our night eventful. The sisters have been busy with school but have managed to find time to do some community activities. After all, that's what we are all about. A few of the sisters joined the alumni phone-a-thon last Thursday to try to raise some money for the University, most of the sisters will be participating in the Hands Across Campus crusade today, and we have been doing canned food drives with our chapter all semester. There are also various other projects which are in the works. The sisters always feel an overwhelming sense of accomplishment when they know they have helped those in need. A special note of encouragement and best of luck goes to our pledges Kathy and Liz. Thanks for being so spirited. It will pay off. That's all the Kappa news for this week.

P.S. A special note to all the sisters, get psyched for Saturday night. Although sisterhood is something you have already earned, seeing it again and again only makes you understand the words MTSND more and more. I love you all.

Kappa Love,

SIC REOPENS on SOUTH CAMPUS

The Student Information Center on South Campus re-opened this week thanks to the combined efforts of Brian Possi, SGA President, and Charlie Ryan, a university student who expressed interest in re-opening the lame duck facility.

The SIC, which is located in the Student Union Building on South Campus is one of two information centers that are under the jurisdiction of the Student Government Association, and are used for a number of purposes. Besides having any questions answered regarding university happenings, the SIC's on both campuses will be used for ticket distribution of activity events. Before, ticket distribution was only limited to the north SIC which cut off those from South Campus from obtaining tickets because of the inconvenience of traveling to North Campus.

Along with the opening of the South SIC will be a number of facility and equipment improvements. Like the North SIC, the South SIC will soon be equipped with typewriters. These typewriters are for the use of anyone who wishes to use one; however, they must reserve the typewriter one day in advance in order to allow everyone a chance to use this service to their benefit. Because of the popularity of the typewriter service, the North SIC will be expanding its typing facility and will also undergo a minor restructuring.

Introducing...

The Entrepreneurial Society

Become a part of the future.. The Undergraduate Entrepreneurial Society of The University of Lowell will open doors to financial security that you may have never known existed. The Entrepreneurial Society is an organization of students devoted to making your business ideas into a success. The society has a wide variety of advisory personnel ranging from business administration to product and sales management specialties. Be a part of the yuppie generation.. Join the Entrepreneurial Society..

If you have money making ideas, but just didn't have the knowledge or backing, come to the Entrepreneurial Society; we will make your idea a success and get you off to a good start in the business world. If you are just interested in business, marketing, sales, product or financial management.. Join the Entrepreneurial Society.. Remember, you can't get rich working for someone else all your life, so start learning about business before you lose thousands of dollars learning the hard way. Join the Entrepreneurial Society.. It can be the best move you ever made.

The Entrepreneurial Society meets in the Pasture building, Monday, at 3:30 PM. See you there..

Women's Center

The University of Lowell Women's Center is holding its weekly meetings on Tuesday at 3:00 PM and brown bag lunch discussion group on Wednesdays at noon. Both of these meetings are held in the Women's Center, room 340 of the South Campus Student Union Building. The Women's Center sponsors various activities that are both fun and educational. These include a women's film series, brown bag lunch discussions, outings, and a peer support network for all women on campus.

All University of Lowell students, staff, and faculty are welcome. Please join us and learn more about vital issues that are facing university women today as they enter the labor force.

Attention Engineers

The Massachusetts Society of Professional Engineers will be conducting a registration on campus program this year at U. Lowell. The purpose is to inform students and faculty about the steps necessary to become registered as professional engineers. For seniors and recent graduates the process begins with certification as an engineer in training.

The initial registration meeting will take place on Monday, December 1st, at 4:30 P.M. in Ball 210. Please make note of it and plan to attend.

Sponsored by the College of Engineering and Tau Beta Pi.

Study Abroad Travel Club

There will be a meeting of the Study Travel Abroad Club in Dugan Basement 12-1 PM Wednesday, November 26. All students please come.

Weekly Bible Study

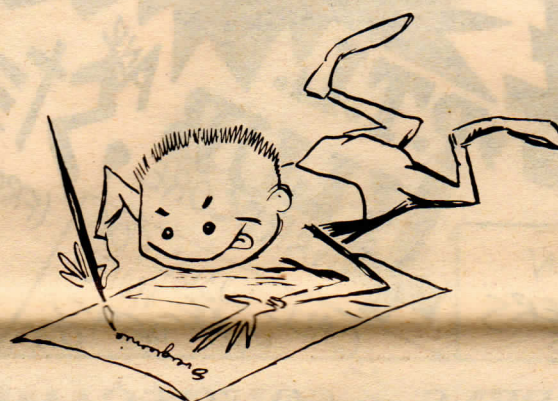

Each Monday at 11:30 AM at the Catholic Center, students come together to reflect on scripture and to discuss its meaning for contemporary living. If you are interested in learning more about the Bible and its potential impact on your life, please join us next Monday. The Catholic Center is located three blocks down from the University Ave. Bridge, along the river, heading toward the south campus. For more information, please call 454-0151.

Pre Law Society

This is a friendly reminder from Legal Eagle Dan to all fellow and future Legal Eagles on and off campus, to hop up to OS 310 (Monday, Nov. 27, 3:30) and attend our open meeting. Our long awaited guest speaker, Andrea Saunders, will share her wonderful tales of Law School with us.

Also, those participating in the field trip to Northeastern Law School should contact Prof. Andrusaitis as soon as possible.

Thanks,
Dan Ziegler

Tewksbury State Hospital

University of Lowell Students are you interested in volunteering two hours a week from 4:15 pm to 6 pm? The Tewksbury's State Hospital Project could use your assistance!

A tradition has developed over the years at the Catholic Center. Students have been volunteering their time to serve the community at Tewksbury State. The purpose of the Tewksbury State Hospital project is to assist the 3-11 pm staff during the supper hour to feed patients. The benefits received from this program are: caring relationships, conscious awareness of the handicapped, assisting 3-11 personnel to give quality time to patients during the supper meal, and learning feeding skills and techniques.

Opinion/Editorial

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to a letter on abortion which appeared in last week's Connector. A certain Mr. Iaosini believes that a woman should not have the right to do with her body as she pleases. Basically, it all comes down to the notion that an unborn fetus in its first trimester is a person, and that abortion is the equivalent of murder. To that I have to say only one thing: Nonsense!

But before addressing that point, there is another point which I don't think that Mr. Iaosini cares for in particular. That is, what happens to all the teenagers and the unwed mothers who have children. You see, Mr. Iaosini, some of us still care what happens to these poor girls who believe whatever a guy tells them to get them to bed. All of a sudden these girls, most of them kids, are faced with the adult responsibility of being a parent. By that time their boyfriend usually denies everything, their parents might kick them out of the house, and that is just the least of the problems facing them. Mr. Iaosini, I worked for Good Samaritans and I've seen these girls. My only wish for you is that you will never experience even a fraction of the problems they go through, the awful turmoils of having to quit school when you're in your teens and look for a job, of being rejected by society, and of being looked on as a lewdtutal lowlife—nothing that you experienced, I'm sure. I've seen kids that grew up with such mothers, and they have their plethora of problems, which I will not get into. Perhaps the poorest ones are the women who share your beliefs on abortion, and decide to have the child and then give it away. They are very lucky if they're not depressed enough to commit suicide.

My intention is not to bore you with figures that you won't even consider, but give you the general picture. If you want figures call any social worker, and you will discover that the actual situation is much worse than what I described. It's very convenient for you to make such judgements, isn't it? You will never be pregnant, will you? Just about all girls who gave their babies away are now pro-choice, and that's a fact that you can check for yourself.

Oh, I've seen your brainwash movie, The Silent Scream. Yes, another one of Jerry Falwell's masterpieces. It only angered me, because I, as most Biology majors, know the facts. "...after just 32 days of gestation... the fetus omits brain waves almost identical to that of an adult..." Really now, where did you hear such nonsense? And even if this piece of sci-fi was true, would you rather ruin a person's life than rid her of a cellular mass that has the potential of maybe becoming a baby? What would you do in cases of rape and incest, I ask you? Believe me when I tell you that victimised girls don't want to go through and have the baby. What could they offer it but hate to their antagonist? Should they carry on their horrifying ordeal (which you can understand nothing of) for nine months?

Oh, you talk of being "touched" by one brain wash movie or another, but these are real lives going through real sufferings. If there is any love in you, how can you be so indifferent to the suffering of a fellow human being?

To me, abortion saves life.

Think about it.

To the Editor:

Apparently, Ms. Ryan misunderstood the intention of my letter of two weeks ago, and furthermore has missed the mark of what a christian is to be in their community. The call of a christian is to obey God and the Gospel, not to respond to the ever changing morality of the 'modern' world. The so-called "facts of the modern world" that she mentions are Biblical sins, and since God does not change (nor does He run a democracy, allowing us to veto His judgements) what was a sin 2000 years ago is still a sin today.

In addition, we who are christians are told to judge. Paul, in writing to the Corinthians christians states, "What business is it of mine to judge those outside the church? Are you not to judge those inside? God will judge those outside. 'Expel the wicked brother from among you'". As christians, we are to judge sin within the church, in order to keep her spiritually pure. My objection to the article in The Connector was that it tried to make it seem that the early christians accepted homosexuality (and other forms of immorality) as an alternate lifestyle inside the church, which they didn't. Neither should we accept it in the church today, although we must still love the sinner, as I wrote earlier. This love involves a call to leave their old, sinful lifestyles for the riches of God, which are given to those who are "hiding behind the Gospel", and not those who compromise it in their attempt to tell men what they want to hear. As christians, it is our God-given responsibility to warn people of the consequences of their actions, and if we do not do so, we are guilty of a crime we cannot repay. So please, let's warn people and tell them the truth of God, and not just tell them that they are O.K. when in fact they are not.

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to the letter criticizing the Disconnector. As a contributor to the Disconnector, I respect your opinion, Miss Eldred and Miss Lyons. If you truly found nothing humorous about the Disconnector, I am sorry. We tried putting in a variety of humor, but apparently we failed. To our defense though, we received numerous positive responses.

The Disconnector was done as a parody. We made fun of the entire University, including ourselves. We have the ability to laugh at ourselves and at our surroundings. For that ability, I feel we do not owe anyone an apology.

However, whether you liked or disliked the Disconnector, that gives you no right to attack the Connector. You complained that the normal Connector size is too small. You said the 'STAFF' shouldn't have wasted their time on the Disconnector. For your information, as it is apparent that you have none to go on, the Disconnector was put together over several weeks, Thursdays, Fridays, and weekends. The Connector did not lose any of its valuable manpower for the publication of the Disconnector.

As for improving the Connector, we are trying. We are a VERY-small group of students, who, besides putting out the paper weekly, go to school full time, work to pay for school, and participate in other activities. What is really required to improve the paper is more participation from other students.

So, Miss Eldred and Miss Lyons, before you start criticizing from afar, why don't you roll up your sleeves, get involved, and find out how much work is actually involved in putting out a small 20 page paper.

Special Collections at the University Treasure Chest of Lowell's History at Lydon Library

Although open to the public, we are not a museum but rather a specialized section of the Alumni-Lydon Library. And we specialize in Lowell, Massachusetts. There are over 25,000 books, pamphlets, and reports. There are also paintings, photographs, letter, diaries, company records, newspapers, films and tape recordings.

The B & M R.R. Historical Society Collection

In 1978 arrangements were made for deposition of the documents and records collected by the Boston and Maine Railroad Historical Society. Part of the collection consist of company records belonging to the railroad and its subsidiaries. There are also a large number of photographs, drawings and posters depicting many aspects of the railroad.

The Lowell Historical Society Collection

For many years, the manuscripts and books collected by the Lowell Historical Society were kept in a locked room at the City Library. An agreement was made whereby the University would house and catalog these materials and make them available to the public. This collection is the largest and most heavily used of all the special collections. It contains a wide variety of sources from journals and company records to photographs and tape recordings.

The Lowell Museum Collection

Most of the photographs used in designing the exhibits for the Lowell Museum were selected from Special Collections. Since it's opening in 1976, the Museum has received many donations of original photographs, books and company records. In response to the need for sufficient storage, many of these items were recently transferred to Special Collections.

The Manning Family Collection

Warren Manning, founder of the American Institute of Landscape Architects, collected historic materials from various members of his family until his death in 1938. These materials include personal papers, documents, books, photographs and other artifacts. It was not until 1972 that these materials became public when they were placed at the University. We are now in the process of indexing these materials for easy public access.

The Middlesex Canal Association Collection

The Middlesex Canal Association Collection was in operation from 1803 to 1853 providing water transportation between Charlestown and Lowell, Massachusetts. The 27 mile canal was located between the Charles and Merrimack Rivers. Passenger boats, freight barges and timber rafts traveled this route. In 1962 a group was organized to preserve, protect and restore as much of the remains of the Middlesex Canal as possible for the public's enjoyment. This associations collection, including the Middlesex Canal Company records, related documents, paintings and maps was placed at the University.

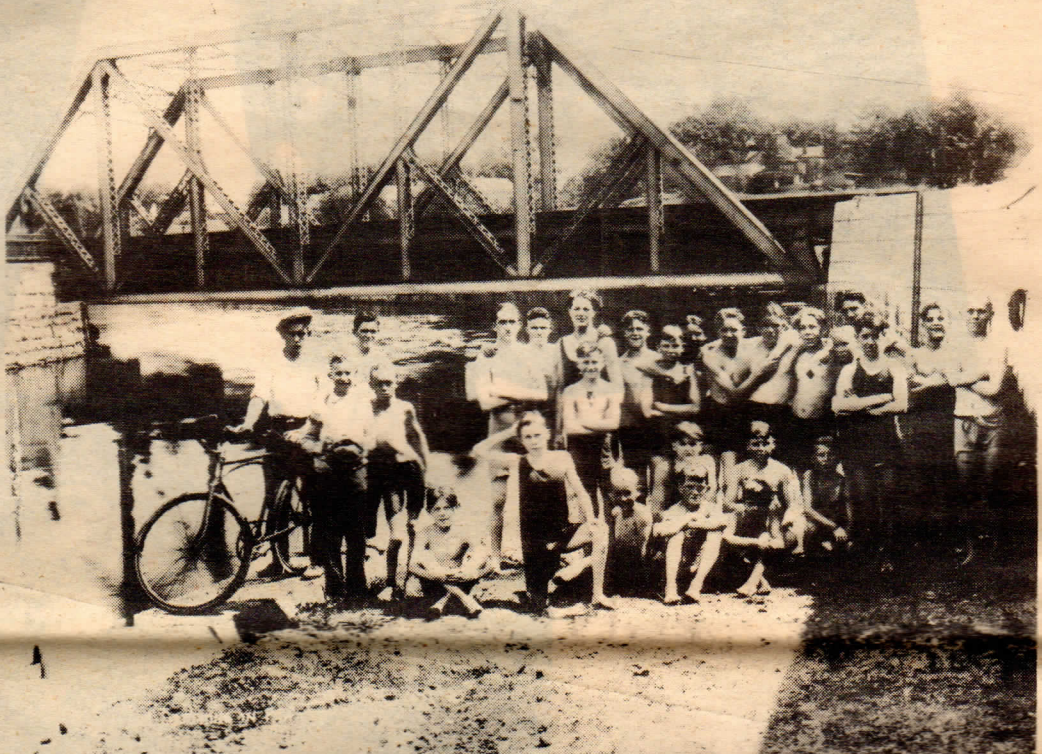

The Oral History Program

Traditionally, most records of history were written, assimilated and passed on from one generation to the next. Today, technology has introduced drastic changes in communication with radios, televisions and computers. In order to adjust to these changes, new methods of gathering history has been developed. One very common method is taping interviews called "oral histories". During the last five years Special Collections has been involved in several projects which have resulted in hundreds of hours of "oral histories".

Paul Winter Consort

Recently featured in PEOPLE magazine, Winter has long defied easy classification in the music world. His compositions harmoniously combine aspects of many styles, including jazz, classical, folk, blues and bossa nova. His work frequently incorporates themes relating to nature and is imitative of natural phenomena. One of Winters' most recent musical adventures, an excursion into the Grand Canyon, probably represents his ultimate achievement as a pioneer in the blending of the sensual aspects of music and nature. His trip resulted in the release of the exciting "Canyon", available on Living Music.

The Proprietors of the Locks and Canals Co. Collection

The Proprietors of the Locks and Canals Company provided innovative architectural and engineering skills required to construct and operate a complex canal system. This system generated enough water power to support an enormous number of textile companies. As a result of their efforts, Lowell became the greatest textile manufacturing city in the country. When the need for the Proprietors of the Locks and Canals Company declined, most of their technical library, architectural drawings and photographs were given to the University for preservation.

The University of Lowell Archives

State Normal School and Lowell Textile School were established in Lowell in the mid 1890's. Each had a distinct purpose: one was to train teachers and the other was to provide skilled workers for the textile industry. These two institutions merged in 1975 creating the University of Lowell. Located in Special Collections are photographs, newspapers, yearbooks and correspondence which represent the history of these earlier institutions as well as the University of Lowell.

Wanna Be In Your Yearbook?

We want this years yearbook to cover all aspects of college life at ULowell. If you are planning an event, doing something unusual, making something that represents this year, or ANYTHING, why not tell us about it so we can take some pictures. You can share your memory with everyone. It's easy, just contact me: Jim Lavalley 459-9902 or 459-4075 or drop me a note in Box 807.

Also, anyone interested in helping put the book together is invited to come to our meetings on Mondays at 3:30 in Fox 430b.

Pre-Health Professions Advising

Dr. Eberiel, The University Pre-Health Professions Advisor, is on sabbatical this year, but will be available to see students every other week on Thursdays. If you wish to see him please sign up on the schedule outside his office in Olsen 512A. He will be available next on November 20th from 9 AM to 5 PM.

The Pre-Health Professions office is available for students intersted in careers in medicine, dentistry, osteopathic medicine, optometry, podiatry and veterinary medicine.

Women's Center

The University of Lowell Women's Center is holding its weekly meetings on Tuesday at 3:00 PM and brown bag lunch discussion group on Wednesdays at noon. Both of these meetings are held in the Women's Center, room 340 of the South Campus Student Union Building. The Women's Center sponsors various activities that are both fun and educational. These include a women's film series, brown bag lunch discussions, outings, and a peer support network for all women on campus.

All University of Lowell students, staff, and faculty are welcome. Please join us and learn more about vital issues that are facing university women today as they enter the labor force.

Are you a woman?

Have you ever said to yourself - I would like to be a LAWYER, but I don't know if I could make it in law school? If so, you will be glad to know that there are law schools in the area who are looking for more female and untraditional students; and who offer a uniquely different law school experience.

On Wednesday, December 3rd, at 3pm, Ms. Ellen Musinsky will speak at the U Lowell Women's Center (Rm. 340 of the Student Union Bldg.) on the subject of "Women in Law".

Ms. Musinsky is a Professor of Law at the Franklin Pierce Law Center in Concord, New Hampshire. She will also discuss why Franklin Pierce Law Center offers an "unusual" law school experience for the "not so usual" student - both male and female.

Please come join us! Bring your unanswered questions and a friend!

For further information, please contact Sylvia Starbuck (box 5744) of the Women's Center, or Joyce Denning of the Second Chance Program.

To the Editor:

This letter is my response to Joe Iadonisi's letter in the Connector last week.

Mr. Iadonisi,

Have you ever seen an abused child? Go to a hospital and take a look; then you come back and tell me all you know about "Hitler's ovens." I have seen abused children: four-year old living humans with cigarette burn marks on their face, neck and forearms; two-year olds with distended bellies from lack of food; seven-year olds with bright, thick, red welts too numerous to count, across their backs. These children were not on film.

I fail to see how any human heart can remain so cold and untouched-and so blind-after knowing what child abuse is and witnessing it.

The parents of these children did not take care of them-they abuse them. But I didn't see any Anti-abortionists caring for them, either. It's all well and holy to say that every fetus deserves a chance at life, but no sentiment person deserves to be tortured just for being born.

Most of these abused children were unwanted babies; perhaps they were the result of an accident, birth-control failure, or rape. Does this make them the responsibility of the parents? Or are there rooms full of good christians waiting to give succor to these abused and neglected infants whose rights are so wonderfully protected, as you point out, in the United States Constitution? If God won't "forget the millions of babies who have been murdered through abortion," what about the millions of children who are living through Hell?

I do not believe that all of the Anti-abortionists are evil; most are either narrow-minded, hypocritical, or spiritually inept.

People who are Pro-choice do not see the Constitution as an extension of the Holy Scriptures. Neither do they believe that every unborn child should be killed, but they do believe that everybody has the right to make decisions based on their own beliefs and morals.

I challenge you, Joe Iadonisi, or any person who thinks that there is only one side to the abortion issue. I challenge you to walk into the pediatrics ward of any hospital, look at a severely abused child, and not wish you could kill whoever brought that child into this world.

The ULET wants you

No experience necessary - that's the first thing you should know about the ULET, ULowell's only Equestrian Team, dedicated to good horsemanship and the dissemination of equestrian news and events from local, regional, and national sources. The ULET is here for YOU - here are some of the reasons why you should consider us:

1. The ULET is your cheapest chance to learn how to ride a horse - our cost is LESS THAN HALF that of normal, private lessons.
2. Anyone can ride, and anyone can compete - we've had total novices competing (and winning) within 1 year.
3. We have had riders sent to the Nationals - several riders took ribbons in various classes, including Reserve National Champion.
4. The ULET is a member of the IHSA, the Intercollegiate Horse Show Association, a national organization which makes it possible for colleges and universities to put on competitions during the school year.
5. The ULET, if you are a member, counts towards gym credit, one per semester.
6. The ULET is exciting.
7. And we're looking for you.

Anything you want to know about horses, horse-riding, competition, grooming, tack, you name it - the ULET is here to provide it all. Currently, we are engaged in fundraising activities which will lower our costs for 1987 and make the Spring semester even better - join us for a part in the excitement!

Any questions?? Feel free to stop by and see our advisor, Professor George Luter, Coburn 107, South Campus. Or stop by at one of our meetings on every Wednesday evening at 5:00 PM, Coburn 107. We're hoping you'll stop in - find out about the ULET today!

Challenge Exams: Physical Education

As you know, Challenge Exams were instituted as a method by which students may fulfill, partially or wholly, their Physical Education requirements. Until now, these were to be completed prior to the senior year. The Physical Education Department has voted to include Seniors, effective immediately. Please advise students of this change.

To review: Any student who can demonstrate a high intermediate level or above proficiency in a specific lifetime sport may do so through the challenge exam process. Students may NOT have received credit previously for the sport being challenged. For EACH challenge exam that is passed (including a physical performance and oral testing) the student receives one credit. (The Physical Education requirement is two credits.)

Students wishing to challenge go to the Registrar's office to obtain the challenge exam form, then see his/her advisor for his/her signature, then make an appointment with the specific examiner. All challenge exams must be completed by the last day of classes of that semester.

Specific sports and examiners:

Archery: Prof. Legault (S)
Badminton: Prof. Chamberlain (S)

Chiefs Still on Top

On the night the Stompers were playing at Cumnock Hall, the ULowell skating Chiefs were doing some stomping of their own Saturday against the Dogs of Northeastern at the Tulley Forum. This was a game marked with fast paced skating and many opportunities. The final score was 7-4, Lowell winning their sixth game this season against one defeat and one tie. At present, they are first in Hockey East ahead of Maine and B.C. (Northeastern is 1-5 and in last place).

The first two minutes of period one saw the Chiefs come out sluggish and N.U. come out strong. Lowell immediately then increased its intensity and it was all over. at 3:23, Gary Murphy scored a shorthanded goal set up by John Borrell, and just 30 seconds later freshmen sensation Randy LeBrasseur tallied to put the Chiefs up 2-0. Jon Morris then showed his talent again at 13:44 when he shot on goal which the goalie swept behind the net and Morris picked it up and swept it just inside the far goalpost at a seeming impossible angle. Seconds later, N.U. got on the board with a goal and then got another on a powerplay at 16:43. The score after one was 3-2.

Again in the second, Lowell came out sluggish and let N.U. tie it up with less than two minutes expired. Once again Lowell picked it up as another outstanding freshman, Craig Charron poked in a rebound of a Tony Lopilato shot to make it 4-3 Chiefs. Among crowd chants of "Boring" Northeastern tied it up on a powerplay, which was soon silenced by Jon Morris' second goal only 38 seconds later restoring the Chiefs one goal lead.

In the third period, Lowell came out much more aggressively than in the first two. They outscored N.U. 2-0 and outshot them 11-5. Jim Newhouse then scored the best goal of the night on a 30 foot wrist shot. He intercepted a Northeastern pass with the help of Paul Ames just inside the N.U. zone, sped past two defenders and flipped the shot past the shell-shocked goalie. Charron then got his second goal of the night producing the final 7-4.

Player(s) of the game: Morris and Charron

Just nights earlier, Lowell came from a 3-0 third period deficit to beat this same Northeastern team 6-4. The Chiefs exploded for 6 third period goals after receiving criticisms from sportswriters alike for their sloppy third period play in all of their first six games. Jon Morris once again was the key as this awesome junior tied the score and then later put them ahead to stay with his 5th and 6th goals of the year.

The first two goals for Lowell were scored by Peter Heinze and Carl Valimont. Dave Delfino once again kept the Chiefs in the game with some brilliant saves. The week prior to this he was honored as Hockey East player of the Week for his two superb efforts against B.C. in which Lowell lost the first game 4-3 but stormed back to win the second by the same score. This marked the first time in quite a while Lowell has beaten a nationally-ranked team, but won't be the last time they repeat this feat. With first place under their belt in Hockey East and a number 12 national ranking last week, Lowell has got to be in the top ten when the latest polls come out.

Anyway, in the first Northeastern game, Tony Lopilato got the game winner at 16:35 of the final period on an excellent move that totally befuddled the Northeastern netminder. Also scoring in the third period were Heinze, Carl Valimont, Morris (2), and Jim Newhouse. This period was marred by a brawl in which Lowell lost Conrad Thomas, Carl Valimont, and Bill Donhaney for fighting. Northeastern also lost three players for one game. Naturally, all of this was caused by Northeastern as they laid on Lowell goalie Dave Delfino provoking Lowell response. As the chant goes: "We don't take no sh-t!"

Player(s) of the game: Morris, Delfino

Lowell's next home game is Saturday Nov. 22 against Boston University. They then play at Merrimack Dec. 1 and start a six game homestand against the Western division teams. Busses are running to all home games and some away games. If there is enough demand for busses to go to Boston, which unfortunately there hasn't been, they will be sent. For Lowell to remain in 1st place and get revenge on all the big-name hockey schools who have reigned for some time, they need support. Next time there is a game, especially the away games, come out and take the bus---it's the most fun a few dollars can buy and transportation is free!

Weekly Prayer Service

On Tuesday evenings between 6:45
PM - 7:45 PM at the Catholic Center, a weekly prayer service will be held.

It will be an opportunity to listen to short presentations on faith or contemporary issues. Likewise, it will be an opportunity to use Scripture to pray and reflect on these issues and how they affect our life experiences.

For more information contact Pat
Davison at the Catholic Center.

No One Should Be Alone for the Holidays

If you are going to be in Lowell during the Thanksgiving or Christmas recess, and your family lives elsewhere, there's no reason for you to be alone. There are many families who have contacted me to let me know that they are willing to give you a place as part of their home and families during the holidays. There's no way I can know your needs if you don't let me know. Please give me a call or leave a note under my door by no later than Monday, November
24th. There are also community Thanksgiving dinners sponsored by the Eliot Presbyterian Church. No pre-arrangements are necessary for this event. For more information, call me, Rev. d Elizabeth Kaeton, at the ULowell Campus Ministry Office
(Fox Hall 409) at 452-5000 x 2362.

that he knows no English. This plan is supposed to allow Charlie to be left alone, but quite the opposite occurs.

The presence of the "foreigner" creates many funny situations, but particularly well-acted are Bellamy's comic expressions as he feigns ignorance during embarrassing personal conversations that people assume he can't understand. Adopting an obscure national persona, (one similar to Andy Kaufman's character 'Latke' of television's Taxi) he creates strange mannerisms, begins to interject funny nonsense phrases to everyone's delight, and gradually discovers an outgoing side that he never knew he had.

He is not the only one to transform his personality from extreme to extreme. Betty, the widowed lodge owner, is seeing her first "foreigner"—she is rejuvenated by the change he represents in her life. The slow-witted boy Ellard becomes Charlie's English teacher, which in turn kindles his own interest in learning.

Not everyone is as tolerant of change, however, and the lodge is visited by the local chapter of the Ku Klux Klan to drive out Charlie and all who have associated with him. The scene where the "sheet-heads" confront the lodgers seemed a bit heavy for this otherwise light-hearted comedy, but the excellent characterizations of the entire cast are responsible for causing this tricky scene to be as believable as it is. Overall, this is a very funny and entertaining evening.

Veteran's Affairs

All veterans receiving educational benefits except through Voc Rehab must sign an attendance list for the first Wednesday of each month. This list is located in the Dean's office of your particular college. Failure to do so could result in interruption of your payments.

The VA Work-study program is available to all veterans receiving benefits under the GI Bill (Ch. 34) and Voc Rehab (Ch. 32). Eligible students can work up to 250 hours per semester. For more information contact the VA Office.

Veterans are exempt from physical education requirements. If you aren't sure whether credit has been received, check with the registrar's office.

Anyone interested in forming a Veteran's Club should stop by the office to let us know. A meeting will be scheduled if enough interest is shown. If coming to the office is inconvenient, write down your name, box number, and times you would be available for meetings and send it to Box 1744 N.

The VA Office is located in Pasteur 403.

Women in History

Simone De Beauvoir
1908 - 1986

A major twentieth-century author and philosopher, De Beauvoir was born into a bourgeois family in Paris. At fifteen, she decided to become a writer, and in 1929 she received her degree in philosophy from the Sorbonne. She was second in her graduating class; first place was taken by Jean-Paul Sartre, who became her lifelong friend and companion. After WWII, De Beauvoir emerged as one of the leaders of the existentialist movement, and her ideas had a profound effect on the intellectual communities of Europe and America. The Second Sex, published in 1949, is an examination and indictment of Western civilization's treatment of women. It has been translated into nineteen languages and its impact felt around the world. In 1970, she published a thorough study of old age.

Originally a socialist, she once looked to economic changes to bring about an alteration of women's status, but recently - discouraged by socialism's failure to create a true social revolution - she became an avowed feminist. She died this year at the age of 78.

We at the University of Lowell Women's Center celebrate the life of Simone De Beauvoir and other notable women. We would like to invite all members of the University Community to join us. Our activities are varied and fun. We meet every Tuesday at 3PM, in room 340 of the South Campus Student Union Building, and also at noon every Wednesday for a brown bag lunch discussion. Please come join us! Sylvia Starbuck, Co-director, Box 5744.

WHEN IS THE RIGHT TIME TO CALL YOUR GRANDPARENTS?

- Five minutes into "The Lawrence Welk Show."
- About a week before your birthday.
- When you just want to tell them you miss them, and that you ate the last of Grandma's chocolate-chip cookies this morning.

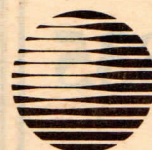

There's nothing grandparents like better than a call from a grandchild in college. But if you do accidentally happen to interrupt Lawrence, you ought to have something worth telling them.

For example, you could mention that you called using AT&T Long Distance Service because you can depend on AT&T's high quality service and exceptional value.

And then you can tell them that AT&T gives you immediate credit if you dial a wrong number.

And that you can count on AT&T for clear long distance connections.

Finally, of course, you should quickly reassure them that you're eating enough, then let them hurry back to the TV to catch the rest of the Lennon Sisters' Blue Oyster Cult medley.
